

LEXMARK TO PROVIDE OUTPUT TECHNOLOGY, EXPERTISE FOR THE PGA OF AMERICA'S 2008 RYDER CUP

Sharing its innovative technology and specialized expertise in output-related products and services, Lexmark International, Inc. (NYSE: LXX) announced today that it will serve as the exclusive provider of output technology for the 2008 Ryder Cup, a PGA of America major championship.

The 37th Ryder Cup will take place Sept. 16-21, 2008 at Valhalla Golf Club in Louisville, Ky.

As part of the agreement, Lexmark is providing laser printers and multifunction products (MFPs), network management and on-site personnel to administer all of the printing and copying needs for the tournament.

Lexmark will optimize the event's printing and copying by streamlining and improving paper-based processes. With customized workflow solutions, event staff can print smarter by moving and managing documents electronically. They will save time and help the environment by reducing paper and energy consumption.

"Lexmark's proven technology, solutions and expertise will provide seamless, reliable printing and improved productivity for this event, where output is mission critical," said Marty Canning, Lexmark vice president and president of its Printing Solutions and Services Division. "We are honored to have a leading role in one of the world's most distinguished golf tournaments, and we look forward to contributing to its international success."

ABOUT THE RYDER CUP

The PGA of America's Ryder Cup began more than 80 years ago and is one of the world's most respected golf tournaments. The Ryder Cup trophy is awarded biennially to the winning team from Europe or the United States. The matches are jointly administered by The PGA of America and The PGA European Tour.
