

LEXMARK X9575 PROFESSIONAL WIRELESS ALL-IN-ONE TOPS BERTL'S BEST LIST FOR COLOR MFPS

LEXINGTON, KY. - 07/17/2008

BERTL, a leading independent test laboratory, has named the X9575 Professional Wireless All-in-One (AIO) from Lexmark International, Inc. (NYSE: LXX) its 2008 Best Professional Color Multifunction Printer (MFP).

BERTL selected the Lexmark X9575 for its ease of use and superior performance in the 13th annual BERTL's Best awards, which are given to the "best of the best" products that BERTL tests each year.

"BERTL analysts review products to identify the select group of devices that stand apart from the others. While print or copy speeds are important, it is the feature set, functionality and performance that are the key considerations in judging which product is 'BERTL's Best.' Our analysts not only looked at how well a product performed in various real-world settings, but also what specific aspects of the device make analysts stand up and take notice," said BERTL. "The Lexmark X9575 stood out as the best professional multifunction color printer for a number of reasons, including its sleek, compact and contemporary design, image quality that is better than produced by most desktop printers and easy out-of-box wired or wireless network and software suite installation."

The Lexmark X9575 combines wireless capabilities<sup>1</sup>, two-sided printing and other productivity-enhancing features intended to help users in a small home office or small business workgroup get more done.

"The Lexmark X9575 is designed to give busy professionals affordable access to high-quality, high-performance wireless printing technology at home and in the office," said Paul A. Rooke, Lexmark executive vice president and president of its Consumer Printer Division. "We are pleased to see the X9575 at the top of BERTL's impressive list of products this year."
